Decor Systems maximises your green star points

What does FSC stand for?

FSC stands for Forest Stewart Council.

FSC's mission is to improve the management of the world's forests. More and more governments and leading businesses specify FSC certified materials in their purchasing programs which goes towards the preservation of the world's forests.

As an architect or interior designer you can support this by specifying Decor Systems FSC certified products in your projects. Together we can work towards the impact our building materials have on the environment.

How does FSC benefit architects and interior designers when using our Decor panels?

Decor Systems range of decorative and acoustic panelling systems delivers the following benefits:

- Environmentally preferable and commercially viable for many interior spaces
- No loss in design flexibility and product functionality
- Our products are certified by Good Environmental Choice Australia (GECA)
- Contributes to Green Star credits
- We make it simple to identify products that fulfil the Green Star credits and navigate you through the Green Star accreditation process
- Our accredited Green Star experts can advise on the Green Star rating system and how our products can maximising your opportunity for Green Star Credits for your project.

Why is Green Star accreditation important to your Decor panels?

Created by the Green Building Council of Australia (GBCA), Green Star is Australia's first comprehensive rating system devised to evaluate the environmental design and performance of buildings, and to drive the adoption of green building practices through market-based solutions. The Green Star rating system is based on a number of criteria. Its objectives are to be able to clearly define "green" building and establish a common standard of measurement; promote integrated whole of building design, to raise awareness of "green" building benefits, identify building life cycle impacts and to recognise and reward environmental leadership.
